TES to host sculptor for ‘Art Connection’

Tamarack Elementary School is hosting local sculptor Charlot Martin from 1:15 to 2:15 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 23, for a special program with fifth-grade students.

Martin, who works with both wood and copper, will have several pieces of her work on display and will show students her sculpting techniques with a special soap-carving demonstration. Students will then practice this skill during their art classes (1:15 p.m. Oct. 28-29 and Nov. 1) as they create their own soap sculptures.

This presentation is part of the school’s “Connect” series. TES art teacher Peggy Wilson said the presentation is designed to allow students to see the creative process through the eyes of local artists. Using the techniques that Martin will share, students will begin to develop their own sculpting styles.

Charlot Martin has been sculpting for more than 51 years and is mainly self-taught. Her work is on permanent display in churches in the Owensboro and Henderson area.

Our media partners are invited to visit Tamarack Elementary School at 1:15 p.m. Oct. 23. The school is located at 1733 Tamarack Road. For more information, contact Peggy Wilson at 270-852-7550 or peggy.wilson@daviess.kyschools.us
